Driver's License Application Forms Sent To Car Owners

Licensing of all drivers of motor cars goes into effect on July 1, on which day Alberta will line up with B.C. and some other provinces in that respect. As it is expected that car registrations will run 100,000 this year, the provincial treasury will be enriched by about $50,000 from the drivers' licenses.

Every driver of an auto must always carry his license under the regulations shortly to take effect. The licenses will be issued to registered car owners at a cost of fifty cents and will stand good until called in for some reason or other. That means that it is not an annual license, and does not have to be renewed every year as is the case with the ordinary car licenses.

When the license issuer is in any doubt, he may require the applicant to submit to a driving test, before issuing the license. This examination would be carried out by some competent person such as a peace officer, etc. Driving tests will not be required of existing license holders, nor will this be required in the case of new applicants for drivers' licenses when it

Old Timers Re-union Picnic Postponed

Owing to inclement weather the Didsbury and District Old Timers' re-union picnic scheduled yesterday at the local fair grounds was called off. A number of former residents of the district were in town for the occasion to attend the re-union and incidentally to renew acquaintances.

It is known that they had been driving for some time before submitting an application for a license.

Speeding, driving while intoxicated and similar offences may cause suspension or cancellation of the license.

Owing to this license regulation going into effect, 200 persons now driving cars in this province will be automatically placed on the interdiction list as they will be refused drivers' licenses. These people are epileptics and others whose physical condition makes them unsafe persons to drive autos. Previous to this act being amended to provide for drivers' licenses the provincial secretary's department had no authority to stop these people from driving cars.

The permits may be obtained at the government offices at Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat.

Locals Win Second League Game Of Season At Carstairs

Didsbury 8; Carstairs 3

On Wednesday evening last Didsbury won their second baseball game of the season against Carstairs by the score of 8 to 3. Only four errors were chalked up against the local boys while Carstairs made eleven, all of which were marked against the shortstop and third baseman. Mix on the mound for the locals struck out eleven men and allowed only four hits. Didsbury secured 9 hits off Matheson one being a home run.

Didsbury would have won their second baseball game of last week, had it not been for the Olds umpire awarding the game to Olds by the score of 9 to 0. At the end of the ninth period the locals were leading 11-7. During this inning with Olds at bat, when the local manager had occasion to enquire of the umpire as to a decision, one of the Olds players, for no reason, caused a rumpus when he hurled uncalled for epithets at the manager, with the result that the local team was called off the field pending an apology from that player. The umpire awarded the game to the northern town 9-0, whereas the game stood at this point in Didsbury's favor 11-7.

This is the second time poor sportsmanship has been displayed by our northern neighbor, and it is all the more regrettable when the two towns are so close together and in the limelight of the realm of sport.

Didsbury Live Stock Pool Meeting July 4

The Didsbury Co-Operative Live-Stock Marketing Association Ltd., held its annual meeting in the Opera House on June 13. The principal item of business was the explanation given by Mr. Fred McDonald, Provincial Director of the Pool, of the new contract. It was found necessary to adjourn the meeting until Thursday, July 4th at which time the members will take definite action on the new contract.

Drivers Warned Of Danger From Hikers

All over the country, war is being declared on "hitch hikers" or "ride beggars." The feeling among motor clubs is that this is something that must be stamped out and the sooner the better.

The season is now about to open for these "thumb tourists" so motorists are urged to be on their guard, no matter how sympathetic they may feel to the roadside applicant. It is from all standpoints a pernicious practice, fraught with grave dangers to the car owner, who has nothing as to the identity of the stranger.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association have on numerous occasions sounded a warning as to this "picking up" practice which, no doubt, is just as common in this province as in other parts of the country. Too often, owners of cars have found themselves looking as calmly as possible into the barrel of a revolver, or find no time in turning the car over to the mercies of the stranger.

Genuine cases, in which lifts would no doubt be justified, doubtless are discovered from time to time. But the fact that grave dangers are risked in a large number of cases makes it imperative that car owners be urged to utilize the space in their machines for themselves, their families or their friends.

OBITUARY

There passed away at the Didsbury General Hospital, Wednesday, June 19, 1929, after an illness of ten days, Paul Emile Banset, at the age of 41 years, 8 months, 19 days. Deceased was born in Alsace-Lorraine and came to Canada some years ago. He served overseas during the Great War and resided with his wife and family on a Soldier Settlement farm north of Zella School, west of Didsbury. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife, three daughters and two sons, all under 12 years of age.

Funeral services were held at the Evangelical Church, Didsbury, Saturday afternoon, June 22, Rev. C. J. Hallman officiating. Interment took place in the Didsbury cemetery.

Tennis Tournaments To Be Arranged

Doings in local tennis circles are indicative of added interest in the local club. For practically a new start this year after a slump during the past few seasons indications point to a revival in this district of the popular game. The interest is especially gratifying in view of the fact that other sports are enjoyed in the town and everybody is busy at one or another.

Arrangements are to be made for tournaments with other towns, but before members can take part in same they must be paid up in the matter of dues. A special rate for families is in force and arrangements can be made with the Secretary for those who are able to play only for a short period of the season.

A lot of work has been expended on the courts and in order to keep them in shape players will note that their co-operation will be appreciated. None but running shoes

Motor Licences To Reach 100,000 Mark This Year

Auto licenses in Alberta are likely to hit the 100,000 mark this year. The total issued up to the end of May exceeded the aggregate for 1928 by 3,000, according to the provincial secretary's department. In 1928 there were 87,000 licenses issued. For the five months of this year ending May 31, the total was 90,000 and there will be a steady stream of applications during the remainder of the summer season.

The revenue from the gasoline tax up to the end of May, when the five cent tax went into effect, exceeded the same period of last year by $170,000. This revenue amounted to $525,402 this year, as against $356,859 in the same period of 1928.

Science To Rescue Agriculture

Recent developments in the realm of agriculture indicate that science is hastening to the aid of the farmer in Western Canada and that the time is not far distant when only those farmers who make an earnest study of their problems and apply to those problems the discoveries which are being made by technical experts can hope to forge ahead and secure for themselves and their families the comforts which fall to the successful businessman.

There are several major problems confronting the man upon the land in the West at the present time. Among these are the questions of reducing the cost of the production of cash crops, and the necessity of not only fighting, but of forestalling reduction in yields through the agency of weeds, insect pests and diseases.

High costs of production and reduced yields through weeds, insects and diseases form a combination which can only be beaten by the alert farmer. Only the farmer who calls to his aid the forces of science can hope to overcome this profit-robbing alliance.

Consider, for instance, the cost of producing a bushel of wheat. While accurate figures are difficult to secure it is definitely known that some farmers are able to place a bushel of wheat in their granary or in the elevator at a mere fraction of the figure which it has cost some of their neighbors to raise and harvest a similar bushel of wheat. It is a safe prediction that the cheap-production farmer has carefully studied the economic effects of the use of good seed, scientifically sound cultivation methods and the cheapest and best modes of garnering his crop. Not only has he done this, but he has kept some record of the cost of his various operations, thus enabling him to find out the weak spots and remedy them.

In this field of agricultural effort a great deal of pioneering work has been done by the farm implement companies, individual farmers of an inventive turn of mind, and leaders of agricultural engineering. It only remains for the average farmer to avail himself of the scientific work already done in this direction and apply and perhaps modify it to his own conditions and circumstances. Many are already doing so to their profit.

Then there is the problem of reducing the loss to profits through the prevalence of weeds which are annually taking a huge toll from farmers. Here, again, a good deal of research work has been carried on by experts in the employ of the Colleges of Agriculture, the Provincial Governments, and the Federal Department of Agriculture. It has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that methods can be adopted which will keep these pests within control in some case, and in others that they can be entirely eradicated.

As an illustration of what is being done, investigations conducted by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture last year, as to the possibilities of eradicating some of the most serious weeds by the use of chemicals might be cited. It is true that the tests showed that the cost of chemicals as a weed destruction agency on a large scale, may be uneconomical but the value of such chemicals in eradicating small patches and preventing them from inundating the farm was clearly proved. A combination of chemicals, suitable cultivation methods, the use of clean and pure seed, will go a long way towards reducing the losses occasioned by weeds in this province.

Similar research work has been, and is being, carried on in the fight against diseases attacking wheat and other cereal grain crops. It is only necessary to refer to one of them—the efforts which are being made to breed a wheat that is not only resistant to the ravages of rust but that also contains those milling and baking attributes which makes Canadian hard red spring wheat so desirable in the export market. Recent reports indicate that success in this field of endeavor is crowning the efforts of technical workers, and it is probably only a matter of two or three years before the farmers will be able to seed their fields with a rust-resistant wheat of good milling and baking quality.

The foregoing are only one or two illustrations of the manner in which science is being enlisted to aid the farmer and to be successful in this day and generation, it is essential that the agriculturist inform himself of what is being done on his behalf and apply the results of the work of those trained men to his own particular problems.

Will Go In For Sheep

A number of farmers around Carman, Man., are interested in the proposal to bring in breeding ewes for distribution among them on terms of payment spread over three years, and a number of applications will be sent in from this district.

Bonusing Immigrants

Feeling Seems To Be Veering Away From Coaxing People To Come To Canada

Three members of parliament, a Liberal, a Conservative, and a United Farmer, spoke the other day against continuing a heavy expenditure to induce immigrants to Canada. They represent farming districts in Alberta, Ontario and Quebec. There is reason to think that the view they express is gaining ground among farmers, and, perhaps less rapidly, among townspeople. The advisability of "coaxing" people to come to Canada is the point at issue.

There is room in Canada for more people, of course. There are people to spare in other countries, particularly in Great Britain. Sending agents abroad to invite people to come to Canada brings a response; there is no doubt about that. But perhaps more would come if we stopped inviting them. There never were so many people wanting to get into the United States as since the "quota" law was passed. The closed gate arouses curiosity as to what lies beyond it.—Edmonton Bulletin.

FEELING WORN OUT

When the Blood Becomes Watery a Breakdown Follows

How many girls and women suffer from headaches, pain in the back or side, poor appetite, nervousness and a constant feeling of weariness and palpitation of the heart at the least exertion. Of course, all these symptoms may not be present in any one case, but any of them show that the blood has become thin and watery, and good health can only be regained by enriching the blood. This should be done without delay. For this purpose nothing else acts so promptly and so surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to enrich the blood and tone weak nerves and thus brings new health and vitality to weak, and often despondent people. The truth of these statements is proved by the case of Mrs. Howard King, R.R. 5, Truro, N.S., who says: "A couple of years ago I grew so weak I could scarcely walk across a room without help. My blood was thin and I was almost breathless. I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on a former occasion with good results, and so decided to try them again. By the time I had taken a few boxes I felt much better, but I continued taking the pills for several months, by which time I could walk for miles with little effort. I do all my own housework and care for four children, so you will see what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Developing Vancouver Port

Further developments and improvements at the port of Vancouver, B.C., involving an expenditure of more than $10,000,000 and bringing the port grain capacity to more than 21,000,000 bushels of storage are to be undertaken this year.

Canada's War Legacy

Over 112 Millions Is Required For Interest On Debt

Canada's ordinary expenditures (excluding of course, her outlay upon capital account), exceed 355 million dollars per year. Of this great sum, nearly 163 million dollars is directly attributable to the Great War, although the war has now been over for more than a decade.

Interest on the war debt demands over 112 millions; war pensions, over 40 millions; soldiers' civil re-establishment, nearly 8 millions.

While expenditures attributable to the Great War mount up to almost 163 millions, the so-called war taxes raised less than 143 millions in the last fiscal year, the greater part of this being secured from the sales tax, stamp taxes and income tax.

War taxes constitute less than one-third of Canada's revenues. Customs and excise duties furnish the country with more than half her ordinary receipts.

Canada Must Use Aircraft

Or Business Of Dominion Will Be Hampered Says General MacBrien

Major-Gen. J. H. MacBrien, of Montreal, spoke on aviation and its relation to commerce and war, at the opening meeting of the Advertising Association's twenty sixth annual convention in Montreal recently.

General MacBrien declared that Canadian business would be hampered unless aircraft were fully utilized in the speeding up of communication. The highways of the air would girdle the world, he declared, and Canada must have her share. When telephone despatching, modern airports and safety devices became more general, aviation would be the safest form of travelling, he said.

Work of Counterfeiters Is Now Engaging the Attention Of the League of Nations

It is not generally known that since the Armistice there has been a huge increase in the crime of counterfeiting, and amongst the lesser but practical endeavours which have engaged the attention of the League of Nations is an attempt to minimize this international evil.

The extent of the menace is indicated by the results of an enquiry taken in 43 countries which shows that in a three year period no less than $5,000,000 in counterfeit currency was seized by the police authorities while it was estimated that at least twice that amount remained in circulation.

Since the war the multiplication of currencies and the vagaries of the exchanges has afforded wide scope to counterfeiters who availed themselves of the differences between the penal legislation of various countries and the lack of co-ordination between their police authorities to ply their trade and escape punishment.

This led the French government in 1927, to suggest that the matter should be taken up by the financial section of the League, and excellent progress has been made in curtailing the operations of the counterfeiters.

The convention on this subject which met recently at Geneva obliges the contracting parties to punish the counterfeiting of foreign currencies just as severely as the counterfeiting of their own and contains extradition clauses to make sure that offenders are brought to justice.

Canada in the past has suffered severely from the operations of the counterfeiter and will follow with close interest the findings of the police, legal and financial experts, who are dealing with the subject at Geneva.

Plague Killing Oak Trees

Famous Forest in England Is To Be Cut Down

Great Britain's largest oak forest, the Royal Forest of Dean, which was planted to provide timber for the British Navy, is being cut down. Unlike Sherwood Forest, which is gradually disappearing to make room for colliery developments, Dean is suffering from the ravages of disease.

Hundreds of acres of trees are being attacked by a mysterious ailment, and are going prematurely to decay. Their branches are shriveling up and dying, and their trunks are becoming overgrown with moss and fungus. The forest, in some parts, is in fact, but over a large area in the centre the decayed boughs and stunted trees make a piteous picture. The giant of the forest is a giant no longer. Pitiless disease has sapped its vitality.

The exact cause of the forest plague cannot be determined, although experts have made frequent investigations to discover it. The investigation, however, has ascertained that the chief cause of the rot is an unknown fungi entering the lower dead or dying branches of the trees. One theory is that harm is done by the frequent tunnelling and earth disturbance occasioned by the working of mines under the forest.

Best Recipe For Longevity

Building Up Bodily Resistance To Disease Says Famous Surgeon

Dr. William Mayo, world famous surgeon, who with his equally famous brother, Charles, gave $2,000,000 to the University of Minnesota for medical research, says longevity is largely a matter of building up body resistance.

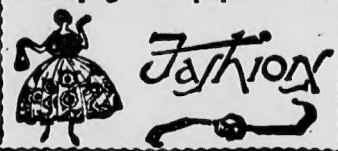

Three hundred years ago a man was old at 30, for the average span of life was 20 years. This has been extended until now it is fifty-eight. Today science is concentrating to increase the resistance powers of human beings and thereby combat dreaded diseases like cancer and tuberculosis. A life span of 100 is a possibility.

Discussing prohibition, Dr. Mayo believes that it will result in immense benefit to the human race.

"From the standpoint of public health, abstinence from liquor would prove beneficial," he said. He referred to Vienna, where since the advent of pure water for drinking purposes consumption of liquor has dropped 40 per cent. in ten years.

"Pure water always has and always will be the great beverage for human beings," says the surgeon.

International Ice Patrols Searching For Icebergs In Broad Sweep of North Atlantic

New Canadians To the Fore

Difficulties Of Assimilation Of the Foreigners Seems To Be Exaggerated

The high schools of Calgary recently engaged in the preliminaries of what is to be an international oratorical contest. Of the five candidates in the city finals one was born in Canada, one in England, one in Lithuania, one in Roumania, and one in Russia.

Of those five, four were immigrants, still young enough to be in high school, yet each born in a different country. All come together in competition to see which could best speak, in English be it realized, to an assembled audience. It is not improbable that they spoke upon some subject relating to the welfare of this land in which they now live.

We hear a great deal of the difficulties of assimilation. We produce our pessimists who spend their days and nights crying aloud against the bringing in of the foreigner. Too often we tend to overlook the other side, and forget that there are many influences incessantly at work tending to make Canadians of these newcomers. These five oratorical contestants will serve to remind us of that. Willson's Monthly.

Buy Where You Sell

Merchants, As Well As Citizens Should Patronize Home Industries

"Buy at home—you live there," with variations such as "you work there" or "you make your money there"—has been a favorite advertising slogan with merchants for a great many years.

All of which makes me feel once again that a dose of one's own medicine should be prescribed occasionally.

In plainer words, a merchant whom we may call "Jones" is noted for his anxiety in relation to the home purchasing propensities of his townspeople, particularly when this applies to groceries which Jones handles.

Jones, however, places his printing order with a cut-rate artist in a metropolitan center, and returns from a business trip to this same center each Fall, with two or three attractive suits made by the city tailor.

Now, Jones, that isn't nice. "Buy at home—you sell there," is a motto that you should hang upon your office wall—and read it carefully when next you feel the urge to preach to your neighbor.—Richard S. Bond.

Ancient Traveller

This strange-looking animal is a Duck-billed Platypus. It originated in Australia and is thought to be the only specimen of its kind in Canada. Its body is eighteen inches long and its head and feet, the latter being flat and webbed, greatly resemble those of a duck. It has the tail of a beaver. Canadian Pacific Express officials had no problem of feeding it as it has been stuffed for over a hundred years.

Hunting for icebergs has been a regular business on the Atlantic ocean for three months in the year since the spasm of horror passed through the world in April, 1912, when the news came that the gigantic liner "Titanic" had crashed into an iceberg and was lost, with most of her passengers and crew. It was this terrible catastrophe that gave birth to what is known as the International Ice Patrol, whose duty it is to protect all who cross the Atlantic from a similar calamity as far as possible.

The cost of this patrol is shared by several European nations, including England and France, with the United States; but the patrol itself is provided by the United States Coast Service, and its duty is to patrol the seas, from the Grand Banks to the Arctic, in search of floating icebergs and fields.

On the first day of April each year this ice-hunt begins, and continues night and day until the close of June—three months of strenuous, perilous and unceasing labor, such as no other seamen on the face of the waters know.

When with the coming spring, winter relaxes her grasp on the regions near the Pole, bergs, and even fields of ice break away from their "moorings" with the rise of temperature and are swept southward by currents from Labrador and Greenland, in many cases crossing the routes of trans-Atlantic traffic.

It was in latitude 41 degrees 46 minutes N. that the Titanic came to her tragic end; and enormous icebergs have been seen two degrees farther south—considerably more than half the distance between the Pole and the Equator.

It requires little imagination to realize the menace of such colossal flotsam of the sea to vessels across whose path they are swept; for many of them weigh hundreds of thousands of tons though only one-eighth of their bulk is visible above the surface of the sea. No lights or siren notes reveal their presence. In the darkness of night scarcely even a spectral glimmer can be seen before the doomed ship crashes into them to her destruction.

Having encountered one of these floating icebergs its exact position is marked on the chart, and a wireless message is sent out to shipping to give warning of its locality. The patrol ship then stands by the towering peak of ice, observing its speed, the direction of its travelling, its size, and so on—information which is also wirelessly as a warning to ships likely to cross its path.

Some bergs will travel as much as 30 miles in 24 hours; others only cover five or six miles. A berg, heading due south, may be caught in a cross-current and swept east or west, or back to the north, and thus it is often necessary to keep it chilly company for days until perhaps it is swept into apparent safety. Occasionally a landing is made on berg or field and a more detailed and accurate examination made of it than is possible from a ship.

Dairying An Important Industry

Dairying is one of the oldest and one of the most important of the industries of Canada. It owes its modern development to the introduction of the factory system for the making of cheese and butter, to the invention of the centrifugal cream separator, and to the facilities afforded by improved methods of cold storage.

SUMMER

If one chooses to be pessimistic about seasons in general and summer in particular all that is now delightful and alluring in the current season is overshadowed by real and imaginary discomforts and annoyances. Although Schopenhauer has authoritatively said that "Thinking men find nothing in life worth the living," the majority of human beings risk a personal application of the "divine pessimist's" imputation and thoroughly enjoy the warm days and hot nights of summer in spite of their many disadvantages.

It is frequently complained by even the habitual optimist that there is always something cropping up to spoil man's pleasures. Some of the common summer complaints are terrifying electric storms, humid and sultry working days, picnic-paralyzing showers, pestiferous insects, wriggling reptiles, congested motor traffic, dusty byways, post-vacation financial shortages and cold meals. Many factors detract from the fun of motor touring, camping in a tent, swimming, vacationing and resort sojourning.

Summer does have many discomforts and annoyances peculiar to itself, but perhaps they exist only to heighten by contrast the many luxuries that are summer's gift to mankind. Man must wrest everything from nature, even his pleasures, and invariably that which is achieved through the greatest effort affords the greatest pleasure.

Nothing is perfection in this universe, so the philosophers say, but this summer with its fair days, its good motor roads, its fascinating resorts, its facilities for camping and swimming and its vacation time is as near summer perfection as mere man can hope for.

NOT OUR SHARE

The Calgary Herald in a pertinent editorial brings to notice the fact that Alberta is not reaping by any means its reasonable share of tourist revenue. Out of $167,384,000 Dominion tourist revenue, Alberta took $763,000 which is $300,000 less than Saskatchewan, $1,600,000 less than Manitoba, and $16,700,000 less than B.C.

The article goes on with the argument that Alberta is the gateway of the finest mountain scenery in Canada and of the finest mountain highways. Then why has Alberta such meagre tourist returns, compared with other provinces with few natural beauties? The answer is that Alberta has earned a reputation for impassable wet weather highways.

The Herald maintains that the Alberta government is earning enough to carry out a much more extensive and thorough good roads program than she is doing. She is free of railway burden, has imposed a five cent gasoline tax and is imposing high taxes on motor licenses. It has also a large liquor revenue. Financially, it is able to go far in the matter of roads, and every season's inertia and delay is actually costing the country a liberal tourist harvest.—Vulcan Advocate.

The Department of National Revenue took in from the income tax $54,933,912 between April 1 and May 15 this year, this being an increase of $9,134,611 over the amount collected during the same period last year. The reasons for the increase are fairly obvious, the increased prosperity of the country and increasingly efficient methods of collection.

Siverwright had pleaded that he was sleeping.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

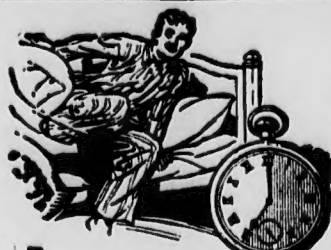

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cabottee, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rush For Land Still Growing

Homesteading In Northern Alberta This Year Has Been Unprecedented

The land rush to Northern Alberta continues apace. It is reported by the Edmonton offices of the Canadian National Railways Colonization Department that approximately 1,000 new settlers with capital aggregating more than one million dollars, had gone into the Peace River country and Northern Alberta since the first of the year and up to the first week of April. It is estimated that during April alone nearly 1,500 settlers will settle in these districts. During the period of April 1st to 15th, a total of 312 settlers with capital totalling $170,000 went to the Peace River District. Among these was one man with $20,000 capital, another with $14,000 and another with $12,000.

During the first quarter of the year 400,000 acres of government land were taken up by homesteaders in the four western provinces, an increase of nearly 100,000 acres over the same period of last year. In the period mentioned, 136 homesteads were taken in Manitoba, 994 in Saskatchewan, 1277 in Alberta, and 96 in British Columbia. Homesteading in Northern Alberta has been unprecedented during this period.

Every month so far this year has seen homestead entries at the Edmonton office double over the corresponding months last year. For March alone the total was 226, as compared with 109 in March, 1928.

Last year there were 3,370 homesteads filed on in the Edmonton district, an increase of 147 per cent. over the previous year. There is every reason to believe that the increase noted so far this year will not only be kept up, but may even exceed that of 1928, over 1927. Even if the figures only double, it will mean that close to 7,000 homesteads will be taken up in this district alone.

Canadian Choristers

Make Splendid Showing In Competition Held In New York

Americans are accustomed to Canada winning high honours at international stock and grain shows, but a surprise was sprung when two Canadian male choirs went to New York and captured second and third places in competition with the best male choirs of the United States. These were the Ottawa Temple Choir, and the Peterboro (Ontario), Male Chorus, awarded two of the first three places in the "B" Class of the international choral contest. First prize went to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Glee Club of Baltimore, with 88½ points out of a possible 100, the Ottawa Temple Choir was next with 87½ points, and the Peterboro Male Chorus third with 85½ points. The contest was one of the features of a two-day choral festival held under the auspices of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, in which 75 choirs from the United States and Canada took part, totalling 4,000 voices. In the contest in which the two Canadian choirs scored second and third places, 14 choirs were entered.

The Desert Song

— BY —

VIRGINIA MORRIS

Copyright 1929 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"The Desert Song" is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. It is based upon the story by Otto Harbach, Laurence Schwab, Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, and Frank Mandel.

CHAPTER IV.

Margot Bonvalet was alone. It was late afternoon and she had just given Paul Fontaine her answer. General Birabeau would marry them that night. She was allowing herself a few last moments of meditation. Leaning against a tremendous mosaic archway, she stood on the balcony and gazed at the vast desert. It awoke in her heart an infinite longing, the ache for an indescribable something that would never be fulfilled. This was not the wedding day of which she dreamed.

Her reverie was broken as a man's figure vaulted the railing behind her. She gave a startled cry, for the stranger was clad in a burnoose of flaming scarlet and his face was hidden behind a protecting mask.

"Oh, you're the Red Shadow!" she managed to exclaim when she had recovered her breath and had steadied herself against a chair.

He bowed gallantly. "A votre service, Mademoiselle."

Margot assumed a dignity that she did not feel. "How dare you come here?" she demanded.

"I heard you call for romance," her visitor explained. "I, too, long for romance and I would dare anything to get what I want. But what would you dare, that's what I came to find out."

The girl ignored the question which the Red Shadow had asked with gusto.

"Do you realize that one scraam from me would wipe out the Red Shadow?" she asked him.

The mysterious stranger shrugged his shoulders. "You wouldn't call for romance in one breath and toss it away in the next."

The ardor of his voice grew as he leaned toward her. "Will you come with me?" he begged. "If you come, I promise not to hold you, but you will stay."

Margot had been clutching her riding crop to give her confidence. Now she raised it quickly. With it she struck the man before her straight across his face. He buried his head in his arm to alleviate the pain and reeled against the balcony rail.

But the girl's indignation quickly cooled. She was alarmed at what she had done. "Oh, oh, I've blinded you!" she cried, running over to him.

But the Red Shadow had by now recovered himself.

"No, Margot, you haven't blinded me, you've just opened my eyes. Now I'm going to make you love me!"

Before she could protest she felt his arms around her, felt him crush her body against his own, felt his mouth seek hers. For a wonderful moment she yielded. But the remembrance of her promise to Paul restored her to her senses and she drew herself away from him.

"General Birabeau! Paul! Paul! Come quickly."

With a nimble leap, the Red Shadow scaled the balcony once more and, blowing her a kiss, was gone.

A moment later she was surrounded by the officers of the garrison. In breathless sentences she told them of the outlaw's visit, of his presumptuous advances. General Birabeau was inclined not to believe her. He thought that the episode was an invention of the girl's feverish imaginings, inspired perhaps by her successive disappointments in Paul. She found a sympathetic listener when Pierre came in a little later.

"What did he look like?" he asked.

"He was all dressed in red, Pierre. His complexion is no darker than yours. He was masked, but his eyes seemed to gleam through. He's a big man—about a head taller than you—and, oh, how strong he is!"

At this juncture, Captain Fontaine, who had heard the report of the Red Shadow's visit, came hurriedly in. He could not understand how the leader of the Riffs had gained access to the house, for every entrance and exit was carefully guarded by troops. However, he considered the man's effrontery in coming a personal challenge to him and determined to run him down that night. Already the signal fires were blazing on the darkening horizon. The Riffs were calling their leader and he would answer them as always.

While her fiancé prepared to leave, Margot was both disappointed and relieved. After all, he was as she had known him to be, her lover only when the bugle did not summon him to military adventure. With the menace of the Red Shadow now uppermost in his mind, romance was again forgotten. He would lead a cavalry troop into the desert at once to kill the Red Shadow, for he realized that the natives loved this man and might revolt if he were taken prisoner.

Again alone, Margot waited—she knew not for what. A sudden volley of shots in the courtyard told her that the Riffs and the French were in active combat. The outlaws had dared now to attack the garrison itself. She felt the tiny revolver in her pocket and was about to seek an even surer safety when the Red Shadow entered the room once more as mysteriously as before. She whipped out the gun and levelled it at him.

"Come a step nearer and I'll fire!"

For a moment he said nothing but only looked at her very steadily. When he noticed that she wavered, he whispered softly, "Put down that gun!"

Quickly she raised it to take aim, but more quickly still he caught her wrist and turned it until the weapon fell to the floor. And before she could make further protest he had picked her up in his arms. In vain she fought to free herself. In vain she called for help. There was none to aid her, for every soldier in the garrison was fighting grimly to keep off the attacking Riffs.

Outside, his white horse waited for him. In an instant he had thrown the girl across the saddle and had mounted. The pony galloped wildly forward, far, far across the sand into the mystery of the desert night, into the vast unknown where romance and love are found. Margot Bonvalet no longer struggled. She clung to the rider, who held her close while he spurred his horse on to a greater speed, and the world she had known was left far behind.

CHAPTER V.

The Red Shadow did not take his beautiful hostage to the Riff's encampment in the hills. Instead, he turned his horse's head to the distant oasis in the midst of which towered the magnificent palace of All Ben Ali. Riding close at his heels came twenty of his own men who carried off Bennie and Susan as their prisoners. Their leader lifted Margot from his saddle and gave her into the care of his soldiers while he went to greet his host.

All Ben Ali received him in a great hall sumptuous with oriental luxury. Its highly polished floor was inlaid with rare mosaics. Low divans covered with priceless rugs invited one to voluptuous ease. Within close reach of them were great brass bowls heaped high with luscious fruit. Or if one preferred smoking in the fashion of the east, there were low tables holding porcelain hookas, the bubble pipes from which heavy oriental tobacco is inhaled through water.

The great Sheik who had been amusing himself with some dancing girls from Spain, dismissed them when his guest approached. He stretched out his arms, saying "Hail, friend!"

The Red Shadow reciprocated this gesture of goodwill.

"Once more, All, I beg your kindness and shelter."

"Should not I protect the protector of my race? What is it this time? Have you burned down a prison or kidnapped a tax collector?"

"This time it's a little different!" admitted his visitor with a smile.

"Ah, yes, to be sure, you bring two women captives—that is unusual. Many times I have offered you the hospitality of my Harem but you have always been as shy about women as—as a Christian."

From the Garden, Sid El Car entered with soldiers guiding Margot and Susan. Both of them were blindfolded but the Red Shadow immediately ordered the bandages removed from their eyes.

"Where's my Bennie?" demanded Susan, querulously.

Margot, still tugging at the ropes that bound her hands, cried "Where's that brute—that outlaw—that kidnapper!"

The Red Shadow bowed very low before her. Sheik Ali Ben Ali ventured a suggestion of hospitality. But he addressed himself to the leader of the Riffs, "I presume you want them to get the same treatment as my women here—you want them bathed?"

The Red Shadow nodded, "By all means!"

"How dare you?" protested Margot. "As a French citizen, in the name of the republic of France, I demand to be released!"

Firmly but quietly, two slaves led the women away. Susan relished the adventure as much as Margot shrank from it. Some Riffs had brought in the captured journalist, Bennie Kid, who was already rousing his secretary's jealousy by his not too furtive glances at the seductive Spaniards.

"Oh, Bennie!" squealed Susan, "he's taking me upstairs. But somehow, Bennie made no movement of protest."

Large Numbers Of Repatriates Return

1,500 Canadians Returning To Canada From United States

During 1929, about two thousand French-Canadians will be repatriated from the New England States to take up farming in Quebec, Ontario and the far west of Canada, according to estimates of the Colonization Department of the Canadian National Railways. In 1928, through movements in which the Canadian National was directly interested, 1,500 Canadians, most of them natives of Quebec, returned to Canada to go on the land.

SKYWAYS AND HIGHWAYS

In the sky and on the highways, transportation moves at a faster tempo. The speed records of yesterday are commonplace today.

Greater speed is made possible by better and faster motors which call for a new margin of lubricating safety. Oils that were "good enough" ten years ago won't do today. Marvelube, a pure, carbon-free, full-bodied oil made from Peruvian Crude, is the preference of Canadian aircraft operators and motorists.

Over half a million motorists in Canada have proved Marvelube's superior qualities. 90 out of every 100 miles flown by aircraft in Canada are travelled with Imperial Products.

There is a grade of Marvelube refined to meet exactly the specifications of your car, truck or tractor. Consult the Marvelube Chart at Imperial stations and dealers.

Another College Fund Bequeathed For Canadian Girls

Profiting by the bequest of $100,000 in the will of the late Sir James Aikins, K.C., former lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, who conceived the project, a new residential school for girls will be opened in Winnipeg next September under the direction of the United Church of Canada, open to children of parents of any denomination throughout the West. This new fashionable River Bend School, as it will be known, is to occupy the residence of the late Sir James and that of his son, G. H. Aikins, K.C., comprising in all eight acres of property on the banks of the Assiniboine River.

Many outstanding Westerners are identified with the new school, promising strong support for the organization. Miss Joan Foster, M.A. (McGill) B.A. (Oxon), a daughter of Senator W. E. Foster, former Premier of New Brunswick, has been appointed principal and a strong teaching staff under her direction is being engaged.

The Board of Trustees has been appointed by the executive of the general council of the United Church, but the school will not be dominated by denominational aims.

Already the drought is having a killing effect upon the crops throughout the district. Serious damage has already been done and unless rain in abundance falls within the next few days the damage will be more serious. — Alliance Times.
